Celebrate Earth Day 2013 Central Virginia Communities Plan Earth Day Events

All across central Virginia, cities and counties are planning events to help the environment this spring. With the 43rd Annual Celebration of Earth Day and warmer temperatures right around the corner, these events provide great opportunities for citizens to get out and enjoy the community and learn ways to help the environment.

By recycling common household items such as narrow neck plastic bottles, aluminum and steel cans, glass bottles and jars, and mixed paper (newspaper, magazines, catalogs, junk mail, cereal and other paperboard boxes, paper bags, cardboard) through CVWMA's curbside and drop-off recycling programs new products can be made from the collected recyclables instead of them being land filled.

CVWMA has compiled a list of events its member localities have planned. Some events may be limited to residents of the sponsoring locality or may have fees associated with them. For these details and other information about the events below, please visit www.cvwma.com.
